I am respectfully letting you know that you should be ashamed of yourselves for making Mr. Austin move his smokers. You offered Little Ceaser's the ability to have a franchise in this city by mistake and said you cannot revoke your agreement with those franchise owners. Yet, when it came to Mr. Austin, you refused to honor the agreement you made with him in the first place. It is the city's fault he moved into that building, not his. The city knew he was opening a bbq restaurant that would involve smokers. To first give him the building, and then kick him out? You will be lucky he doesn't sue the city...you claim you can't kick out Little Ceaser's, but it is clearly a double-standard. The city really needs to do a better job in their permit department . They have also permitted things that go against their own city rules. Appalling. Thank you so much.
